Experience Kangasala

Near to nature

Kangasala's atmospheric cultural landscape and nature have attracted visitors for centuries. The beauty of the region's scenery has been the subject of poems illustrating one's desire to be near to nature. When you climb to the hilltop, you are away from the everyday and able to see farther.

Here you will feel welcome to see and experience new things in all seasons, by yourself or with your family and friends. Take a stroll on the softest forest paths, enjoy skating and skiing on a frozen lake, choose the scenic route. Feed your soul by enjoying art and music. Admire beautifully restored classic cars and relax in a cafe. Fetch fresh strawberries and other local produce from the marketplace.

There is something to see and do in Kangasala for everyone. This brochure provides tips for tourists and locals alike. The visitkangasala.fi website will give you additional information.

Among the many fascinating events, the highlight of the year 2019, the Jukola orienteering relay race hosts approximately 20,000 competitors and thousands of other visitors in the forests of Heponiemi. If you love orienteering, geocaching, hiking or other outdoor activities, you will find plenty of opportunities even after the event.

SUMMER NIGHT MAGIC – KANGASALA JUKOLA 2019

Why not experience the magic of the Finnish Summer Night in Kangasala? On 15–16 June 2019, the 71st Jukola relay race in orienteering and the 42nd Venla relay (Venlojen viesti) will take place in the forests and the fields of the Heponiemi village. The teams will have around 20,000 competitors from across 40 different countries.

The Jukola relay is the biggest sports event in Finland and the world's biggest relay race in orienteering. Year after year, the magic of the bright summer night and the spirit of friendly camaraderie among the competitors have been attracting orienteers to this event, which has the world's elite orienteers and the enthusiastic hobbyists run the legs side by side.

Jukola's exciting atmosphere can be felt even by those experiencing the event on the television or the Internet. Thanks to GPS tracking, you can follow orienteers on screen in real time.

The competition kickstarts with a women's four-member Venla relay on Saturday, 15th June 2019 at 2 pm. The mass start of the Jukola relay takes place at 11 pm on Saturday as the sun begins to set. Several seven-member teams will race through the night and the anchor of the winning team will cross the finishing line early on Sunday morning.

The Jukola competition centre is like a small town in itself. Besides following the thrilling competition, you can enjoy pop-up cafes, sports shops, various stage events, the peace and quiet of the forest church, a camping experience in the summer night, or just the hustle and bustle of the happy crowd.

Right from the stone ages, the forests of Heponiemi has witnessed people moving through its woody trails. The hilly terrains offer quite a challenge for the orienteers. The highest hilltop, Valkeisvuori — which is over 90 metres above the Lake Längelmävesi — was once a spot from where the early dwellers of Heponiemi sent out messages using signal fires.

This event will be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to experience the true spirit of Jukola in the beautiful location of Kangasala.

Get into nature

PLAN YOUR OWN ADVENTURE

There are plenty of opportunities in Kangasala all year round if you are a sports enthusiast. Hop on a bike or mount a horse and head for the trails. If water is your element, explore the surroundings by canoe or kayak.

RELAX AMIDST NATURE

If you are seeking nature's peace and treasures, you don't have to go too far. The eskers and lake-sides, surrounded by lush forests, will calm your senses. There are kilometres of trails to choose from, some even in the town centre, making them accessible to all. Real wilderness awaits you in Laipanmaa.

ENJOY THE WONDERFUL SCENERY

Stop and admire the beautiful landscape from the hilltops and lakeshores. There are several famous vantage points in Kangasala, so you will certainly find one of them on your route. Photo from Vehoniemenharju.

CHOOSE YOUR SCENIC VIEWPOINT

The Haralanharju scenery was made famous by Zachris Topelius' poem, A Summer Day at Kangasala, in the late 19th century. The observation tower was built after the song had gained huge popularity. The Kirkkoharju tower from the 1930s represents the Functionalist style and is at the highest elevation of all the lookout points.

Vehoniemenharju is a conserved nature reserve and its wooden tower is the oldest, dating back to 1927. The Pohtiolampi observation tower is a great spot for watching ospreys diving into the waters to catch rainbow trouts. The Keisarinharju tower was Finland's first observation tower in 1819, built in honour of Tsar Alexander I of Russia upon his visit to the region. The current viewing platform was built in 2006. See locations on the map.

Hike into the woods

Laipanmaa is the largest wilderness area in southern Finland and has 30 km of guided trails along with plenty of places to rest. The 60-kilometre-long Kaarinan polku (Kaarina's trail) hiking trail is connected to the Birgitan polku (Birgitta's trail) in Lempäälä. laipanmaa.fi, kaarinanpolku.fi.

Explore the eskers

On the Vehoniemenharju ridge, you can walk down a two-kilometre trail to experience the beauty of the eskers. The path is steep in places and features specialities such as curly birches and the Uhkainlampi kettlehole.

luontoon.fi

Trails for people of all ages

Kirkkoharju has good, even trails that are also suitable for cross-country cycling. The 10.5-kilometre Kirkkojärvi circuit has everything from walking routes and lakeshore paths to duckboards, leading you through the cultural landscape of the Liuksiala manor.

Hike to the Punamultalukko kettlehole

From the Vehoniemenharju ridge, around three kilometres to the south, there is an impressive deep esker kettlehole from the Ice Age called Punamultalukko, one of the biggest in Finland. The kettle hole was formed when a large block of glacier ice was submerged in the esker and later melted.

61°23'1"N, 24°11'52"E

Cycle around the Lake Roine

The 75-kilometre route around Lake Roine, which also includes hill cycling, will take you through the beautiful countryside of Kangasala and the neighbouring municipalities. You may choose to take a detour to the idyllic Saarikylät island villages in Kangasala. The cycling routes around the lakes, Pyhäjärvi and Näsi-järvi, are also close by.

pyhanasi.fi

Go cave searching

You can go cave searching for a whole day in Kangasala. Lempokivi and Ohtola Pirunkallio (Devil's Rock) are the most famous caves. The Mäyrävuori recreational area, which is close to the town centre, will surprise you with its beauty. Here, the cave is hidden under an immense boulder.

Geocaching to find hidden places

Geocaching is a fun way to explore Kangasala's scenery and sights. There are geocaches all around the town, for example, near the observation towers and along the hilltop paths. Many of the geocaches will take you to smaller sights that you would miss otherwise.

Don't miss the Mobilia automobile museum

Mobilia is a must-visit for anyone interested in motor vehicles. A special national museum for road traffic, it offers new experiences for the entire family all year round. The museum's location by the Lake Längelmävesi adds to the whole experience. The permanent exhibition showcases classic automobiles all through the year, apart from special temporary exhibits. In the Rally Museum, you will always have something new to see in the Rally Hall of Fame. Children's activity areas include a traffic park, sandpit area, nature path to the Keisarinharju ridge, beach and the Sega Rally game in the exhibition area, among others. The museum shop offers a selection of nice gift items and local products. A buffet lunch is available from 11 am to 2 pm.

The popular Vehoniemi

The beautiful Vehoniemenharju ridge has an ancient road on the top, a wooden observation tower and an automobile museum. If you want to explore the esker, take the two-kilometre nature path departing from the parking area. The free-of-charge museum displays wonderfully-restored vehicles from different decades. The museum shop offers a great selection of scale models. The cafe serves a speciality from the 1920s — spoon doughnuts — as well as white chocolate cake, savoury treats and it even caters to special-dietary choices. Motorists' Friday nights are popular in summer.

KARIN MÅNSDOTTER – QUEEN OF SWEDEN AND THE GOOD LADY OF KANGASALA

A kilometre-long birch alley leads to the former royal manor of Liuksiala in Kangasala. The yard of the manor whispers stories from centuries ago. In those days, the waves of the Lake Roine almost washed the stone staircase of the main building. On these very same stairs, a queen has trodden once, Karin Månsdotter (ca. 1550–1612). She was the Queen Consort of Sweden for only 87 days, but her name is still known in Finland and Sweden.

Karin (Catherine), born into a peasant family, was under 15, when King Eric XIV took her into his court as a mistress. A few years later, he married her and had her crowned queen, which accelerated the rebellion of the nobles against the unstable Eric. Duke John became king and held Eric and Karin imprisoned, among others, in the castle of Turku in Finland. In 1577 John had his brother killed, after which he had no reason to keep Karin as a prisoner. He granted Karin the remote Liuksiala estate in Kangasala, where she was to spend the rest of her life – more than 30 years. Her daughter Sigrid was allowed to follow, but the son Gustaf was taken from her and sent to exile in Poland.

The Good Lady of Liuksiala was trusted by her servants and she made the estate one of the most lucrative in Finland. Said to be generous and humble, Karin became known throughout the country. During the great peasant rebellion in 1596, the rebels burned down several manors but refrained from plundering her estate upon the order of their leader Jaakko Ilkka.

Karin Månsdotter died in 1612. She was buried in the Cathedral of Turku and her remains were transferred to a burial monument in the 1860s. The Liuksiala estate went to her daughter Sigrid who had married into the Tott family. For more than 200 years, the manor has been in the Meurman family.

The Liuksiala manor is located near the Ranta-Koivisto residential area and you can see it, for example, by taking the Kirkkojärvi route. The original town centre of Kangasala was established in this area. It has been estimated that the first church of Kangasala was built here in the 12th century. All that remains from it in the current manor chapel is the stone floor.

Kangasala of manors

In the landscape of Kangasala, royal manors and other estates with their vast fields tell the story of the growth of the wealthy region from the 14th century to the early 20th century. In addition to Liuksiala, the Vääksy manor was also connected to the history of the Swedish royal family of Vasa: King John III granted the estate to his former mistress, Karin Hansdotter. Today, the Vääksy commercial garden and a riding centre can be found in the area. From the Kirkkoharju esker to the north, there is an open plain with fields, the vicarage, Sorola manor, the Tavela riding estate and the lands of the Lihasula manor, famous for its Finnsheep.

Lepokoti, a former hostel with a special atmosphere

Kangasalan Lepokoti (Kangasala rest home) by the Lake Ukki acted as a hostel frequented by artists during the years 1910–1986. Join a guided tour to hear stories from its vivid history. Lepokoti still has an ambience like no other. In summer, there is a shop selling locally-made handicrafts. The rooms can be rented for events and there is also a summer theatre.

The church with a blood stone

The greystone church of Kangasala, completed in 1767, acts as a road church during the summertime. In the latest renovation, the star-ornamented cassette ceiling was returned to the church. In the outer wall, there is a blood stone which seems to be oozing a red substance. According to the folklore, a young nobleman fell in love with a common girl who was accused of witchdom and sentenced to death. Legend has it that the stone is still bleeding as a symbol of her innocence. The drops of blood in the Kangasala coat of arms also symbolize this story.

Sarsa and Finland's oldest kitchen

A newly improved cultural path leads to the prehistoric settlement located between the Pohtiolampi riding arena and the Osprey Centre. Along the way, you will find a reconstructed Stone Age cooking place, Finland's oldest kitchen. Maybe it was used for cooking fish which is abundant in the many waterways of the region – no doubt the food was local. If you are interested in learning more, the Ancient Kangasala web tool will guide you into the past.

Äijälä is a Karelian culture centre

The Äijälä house next to the Liuksiala manor exhibits Karelian culture as well as the culture of those evacuated from Karelia during the Winter War and the Continuation War. The exhibits have been received as donations. The museum is open on Sundays in July or upon agreement. The house with its yard area can be rented for festive events.

Grab a cup of coffee

Take a break at the marketplace and enjoy a cup of coffee with oven-fresh, baked treats. The Kangasala marketplace cafe has a long-standing tradition of making all the products themselves. Open on weekdays from 7 am to 4 pm and on Saturdays from 8 am to 3 pm.

Enjoy the local theatre

There are several active theatre groups in Kangasala, inviting you to be a part of the shows. There are also performances for children. The Kangasala summer theatre, with a covered seating area, is located on the shore of the Lake Längelmävesi in the vicinity of the Mobilia museum. Other venues include the Kangasala Arts Centre, Lepokoti, Pirtti and Teatteritalo Parvula.

Fairytales are brought to life in the Pikkuteatteri children's theatre. The adventures of the giant brothers, Riku and Piko, can be heard in many stories about Kangasala's history and geography.

Enjoy the library services

The main library of Kangasala is situated in the Culture Quarter next to the Kangasala Arts Centre in the heart of the town. Come and read newspapers and magazines, borrow books, work or participate in various events. The library also houses the service point of the adult education centre and a gallery, Taidetila Terra, which displays temporary exhibitions. Enjoy a lunch salad or coffee with cake in the downstairs cafe.
